WASHINGTON, D.C.

Serial: 1330.

From: The Director, Central Intelligence Agency.
To : The Chief of Naval Personnel.

Subject: Temporary Additional Duty Orders; request for authority to issue to Officers of the Naval Establishment.

Enclosure: (A) Sample CIA TAD Orders.

1. In connection with the various activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, it becomes necessary from time to time to request the services of certain Naval Officers not attached to the Naval Administrative Command, Central Intelligence Agency. In many instances, due to the circumstances of the requirement, time is of the essence. Expeditious arrangements can usually be made with the Commanding Officers of the officers concerned, due to dual interest in the problems, but time may not be available for the normal processing of a request to the Bureau of Naval Personnel for the issuance of travel authority, and for the subsequent issue of CIA travel orders necessary to authenticate CIA expenditures.

2. To simplify and expedite procedures in such instances it is requested that a letter be issued to the Commanding Officer, U.S. Naval Administrative Command, Central Intelligence Agency, authorizing him to issue Temporary Additional Duty Orders involving travel, to such Naval Officers as the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency may direct. It is understood that no officer will be issued such orders without his full knowledge and concurrence, or without the approval of his current Commanding Officer. It is further understood that all expenses incident to CIA TAD Orders will be borne by the Central Intelligence Agency.

3. All orders issued would be in accordance with the form shown in Enclosure (A).
